Local and Personal Briefs

In the Local Newspaper.

He didn't have a dollar.
He didn't have a dime.
His clothes and shoes were looking just as though they'd served their time.
He didn't try to kill himself.
To dodge misfortune's whisks
Instead he got some ashes.
And he filled five dozen sacks.
Then next he begged a dollar.
In the paper in the moon
He advertised in push
That would put the sun to scorn.
He kept on advertising.
And just now, suffice to say,
He's basking on the beach.
In his cottage on the bay.

"They" are telling an interesting story on Messrs. Hough and Fudger, who left DeLand Saturday noon to visit their families at Seabreeze. They went from DeLand to Orange City by team, took the train to Smyrna, and there harnessed Mr. Hough's auto and started for Daytona. About half way between Smyrna and Port Orange, the machine balked; the little shower that at DeLand and left four or six inches of rain also visited the coast, and it happened right there. The machine refused to run, even after the most persuasive coaxing. Messrs. Hough and Fudger waded to Port Orange and phoned to Daytona for a team.

The DeLand baseball team left for Daytona Wednesday night by hack. They played a double-header there on Thursday with the local team. The News has reached that point now in its career where we believe that we can conscientiously say that the paper has a larger paid subscription list than any newspaper ever before published in Volusia county. Every advertiser knows that it is not the number of papers printed, but the number of papers ordered, paid for and read each week, which make a paper's advertising space valuable. THE NEWS has added nearly 300 new subscribers since the first of January, nearly every one of whom has paid for the paper in advance. Our subscription lists are printed and are open to the inspection of advertisers.
